IB Juniors Summer Reading 2019

Mrs. Casolaro/ Mrs. Few DHS

Course Description:

Welcome to IB English- Literature- a broad and balanced, yet academically demanding, programme of study

- the development of research skills
- the development of independent learning skills
- the development of intercultural understanding
- a globally recognized university entrance

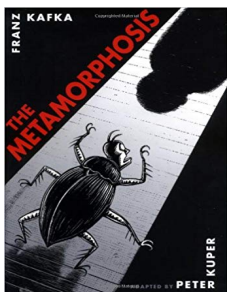

The course engages students in the close reading and critical analysis of imaginative literature to deepen their understanding of the ways writers use language to provide both meaning and pleasure. As they read, students consider a work's structure, style, and themes, as well as its use of figurative language, imagery, symbolism, and tone. Writing assignments include expository, analytical, and argumentative essays that require students to analyze and interpret literary works (IBO.org).

We will also be learning strategies to help prepare for the AP Literature and Composition exam at the end of the year for those students that wish to take the exam.

Your REQUIRED summer reading assignment involves the following- students are required to have a hard copy of all books- no digital copies, please. Due to differences in publishing, you are required to have the exact published example.

Barnes & Noble will have copies of the novels available. PLEASE state that you are purchasing for Mrs. Few at DHS. Cheaper copies may be found on Amazon and other resell websites or at local public libraries.

Annotating will help students to easily review/ recall what they have read and also provide an opportunity to remember questions they may have as they are reading. We will be working with these novels throughout the school year.

ANNOTATE: Either with post-it notes within novel or directly in the novel. No notes.

What is annotating? What do I annotate?

“Marking and highlighting a text is like having a conversation with a book – it allows you to Ask Questions, Comment on Meaning, and Mark Events and Passages you want to revisit. Annotating is a permanent record of your intellectual conversation with the text” (Unknown).

Begin to annotate. Use a pen, pencil, post-it notes, or a highlighter (although use it sparingly!).

The following are just some examples of what you can annotate. You are not expected to find/ use all of the examples.

- *Summarize important ideas in your own words.
- *Add examples from real life, other books, TV, movies, and so forth.
- *Define words that are new to you.
- *Mark passages that you find confusing with a ???
- *Write questions that you might have for later discussion in class.
- *Comment on the actions or development of characters.
- *Comment on things that intrigue, impress, surprise, disturb, etc.
- *Note how the author uses language (word choices)
- *Feel free to draw picture when a visual connection is appropriate
- *Explain the historical context or traditions/social customs used in the passage.

~Suggested methods for marking a text:

- *If you feel really creative, or are just super organized, you can even color code your annotations by using different color post-its, highlighters, or pens.
- *Brackets: If several lines seem important, just draw a line down the margin and underline/highlight only the key phrases.
- *Asterisks: Place an asterisk next to an important passage; use two if it is really important.
- *Marginal Notes: Use the space in the margins to make comments, define words, ask questions, etc.
- *Underline/highlight: Caution! Do not underline or highlight too much! You want to concentrate on the important elements, not entire pages (use brackets for that).

GRADES:

Due August 15th- 1st Day of School

Annotated Novel: The Metamorphosis GRAPHIC NOVEL

Annotated Novel: Oedipus Rex

Annotated Novel: A Doll's House

LITERARY TERMS DICTIONARY:

You will need to create or have access to a literary elements (terms) dictionary. There are several reliable sources online: Purdue OWL, Writing Lab at NC, etc. You will be using the terms throughout the school year. Check the Daphne High Website to see the list and examples of formatting if you decide to make notecards/ flashcards. Although you will not receive a grade for the terms you will be tested periodically and must know them as you know your multiplication tables. 😊
